

Obligation to comply with the data protection requirements of the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR)

was obliged to ensure that it is prohibited to process personal data without authorization. Personal data may only be processed if consent or legal regulations permit processing or processing of the data is prescribed. The principles of the GDPR for the processing of personal data are laid down in Art. 5 (1) GDPR and essentially contain the following obligations:

Personal data must be

- a) processed in a lawful manner and in a manner that is comprehensible to the data subject;
- b) collected for specified, clear and legitimate purposes and may not be further processed in a manner incompatible with those purposes;
- c) be appropriate and relevant to the purpose and limited to what is necessary for the purposes of the processing ("data minimisation");
- d) be factually correct and, where necessary, kept up to date; all reasonable measures shall be taken to ensure that personal data which are inaccurate for the purposes of their processing are immediately erased or rectified;
- e) stored in a form which allows the identification of data subjects only for as long as is necessary for the purposes for which they are processed;
- f) processed in a manner that ensures adequate security of personal data, including protection against unauthorised or unlawful processing and against unintentional loss, destruction or damage through appropriate technical and organisational measures ("integrity and confidentiality");

Violations of this obligation may be punishable by a fine and/or imprisonment. A breach can also constitute a breach of employment contract obligations or special confidentiality obligations. Claims for damages (under civil law) may also arise from culpable breaches of this obligation. Your obligation of confidentiality resulting from the employment or service contract or separate agreements is not affected by this declaration.

The obligation shall continue to apply even after termination of the activity.
I confirm this commitment. I have received a copy of the commitment.
